

The Midsummer Night's Dream

Pre-show workshop
and
Radio play performance

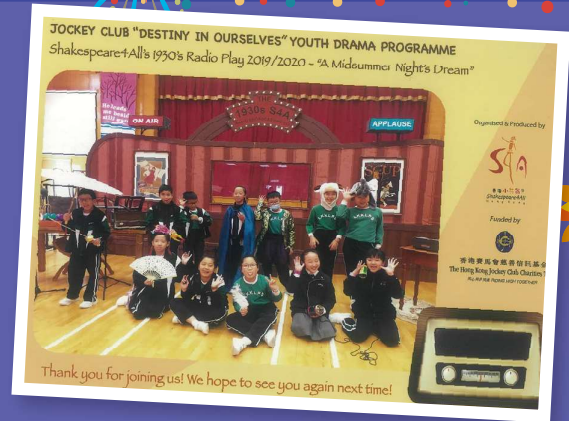

Let's take a group photo after the wonderful drama show!

Students dress up in the costumes in Shakespeare's time.

The pre-show activities are very interactive and engaging.

In November, 2019, about 150 P.4-6 students took part in "1930's Radio Play -A Midsummer Night's Dream" under the School Touring Drama Project organized by Shakespeare for All (S4A). The whole project consists of three parts - students' workshop, teachers' workshop and the show. However, due to the school suspension in mid-November, teachers' workshop was cancelled. Luckily, students could still learn in the fun and interactive pre-show workshop and enjoy the show performed by professional actors.

In the one-hour drama pre-show workshop, there were different stations where students could know more about props, sound effects, scripts, Shakespeare, and the history of radio in a fun and interactive way. The team of S4A retold one of the famous plays of William Shakespeare – A Midsummer Night's Dream, in an interesting and creative way. During the one-hour drama performance, students tried out some drama techniques that they had just learnt in the pre-show workshop. Some students even took on roles in the show. It is definitely a fun way for students to learn more about English literature which may sound boring and difficult to students!

It is more than a drama show.

It is more like a workshop which involves the participation of the audience.

The students are very eager to participate in the workshop and have a great time!

Everyone is paying his full attention to the actors and actresses.
